Dear sluchaino666,

Following review of your application for an additional interval, we inform you that your pull request No. 1, submitted on 18 September 2026, was closed that same day without merging. This notice elaborates on the recorded reason and the Bureau's supplementary observations. The length of our response must not be construed as a reopening of your entitlement to a line break.

1. Inadmissible reference: reuse of number #35. Your submission bears "Refs: #35". That number already belonged to commit af1a251, present in your base. The rejection comment is explicit: "Rejected. Ref #35 does not apply here." Numbering identifies a sequence of commits; it is not a self-service counter for available references. You must check the history and coordinate the next number before resubmitting. The number available today cannot be inferred from the one you wished to obtain on Friday.

2. Discrepancy between declared emptiness and evidence supplied. The diff adds exactly one `` tag in `frontend/src/app/page.tsx`, between `ProfessionalHelloWorld` and `ComingSoon`. Your description announces a blank line and no information added within that space. Yet this is an additional JSX element, not a blank source line. The Bureau cannot equate a line-break instruction with an absence of instructions solely on the strength of its ambition to say nothing.

3. Insufficiently individualised submission branch. The source branch is `main` in your fork. The contribution guide requires a dedicated branch. Your interval therefore arrived at general reception without a corridor of its own. A separate branch is expected upon resubmission; opening one does not, however, imply that your case will be opened.

4. Documentary exhibits absent from the diff. Only one file is modified. Neither the `README` nor the `CHANGELOG` is updated to accompany the intended visible spacing, although the guide requires updates for visible changes and newly shipped additions. The absence of delivery plainly does not waive the preparation of documents needed for review. The requested emptiness remains subject to a full and complete description.

5. Scope of assurances not established. Your account mentions no known security, performance, accessibility or deployment implications, without describing any concrete verification. No malfunction or failed test is alleged here. We require you to distinguish the observed diff, the expected effect and checks actually performed. The absence of a reported incident does not constitute a certificate of conformity for the void.

Consequences and arrangements for reconsideration. The rejection stands for this closed PR. Before any new application, you are invited to regularise the reference, isolate the branch, describe the proposed tag precisely, attach the relevant updates and specify your checks. Failure to do so may result in another closure without further action, accompanied by a referral to this notice, which may be invoked against your submission in an even longer version. No statutory deadline, financial penalty or withdrawal of actual rights attaches to this administrative fiction. Any objection may be raised in the GitHub discussion; receipt implies neither merging nor recognition of an acquired right to spacing.

Please accept, Sir, the assurance of our administrative consideration, whose physical continuation on the following page
